Progress to Sponsor and Present at Gartner Application Strategies & Solutions Summit

November 21, 2018

Progress CEO Yogesh Gupta to host end-user roundtable; CTO Dmitri Tcherevik to speak about low-code development platforms and the developer experience

BEDFORD, Mass.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Nov. 21, 2018-- Progress (NASDAQ: PRGS), the leading provider of application development and digital experience technologies, today announced its participation in the upcoming Gartner Application Strategies & Solutions Summit. The event will take place November 27-29, 2018 at Caesars Palace, Las Vegas. At the event Progress will host a series of sessions on high productivity and low-code application development as well as the Progress® Kinvey® high productivity platform.

Attracting nearly 1800 attendees annually, the Gartner Application Strategies & Solutions Summit 2018 will host technology innovators and more than 60 elite Gartner analysts exploring the latest approaches to optimize existing applications and infrastructure as well as leading-edge technologies driving business transformation.

As a leader in application development, Progress will be onsite hosting a series of sessions that will explore the latest innovations and what's ahead for low-code development and high productivity platforms. Sessions include:

Vendor User Roundtable, "Pros and Cons of Becoming a Tech Company"
Yogesh Gupta, CEO, Progress
Tuesday, November 27 at 3:30 p.m.

Theater Session: "Low-Code Platforms – What Developers Think and Why"
Dmitri Tcherevik, CTO, Progress
Tuesday, November 27 at 6:20 p.m.

Lunch Panel: "How to Get Developer Buy-in for Low-Code Solutions"
Mark Troester, VP of Strategy, Progress
Thursday, November 29 at 11:45 a.m.

"We believe that the Gartner Application Strategies & Solutions Summit is really valuable because it brings together developers, architects and CIOs," said Tcherevik. "From our perspective, these individuals need to build apps more rapidly than ever, but they can't sacrifice app quality or user engagement. It's exciting to be here as they discuss and explore the most modern solutions that will help them tackle these tough app dev challenges."

Progress will be available at booth #502 throughout the event. To learn more about the company's high productivity app dev platform and to view a demo of the Progress Kinvey platform in action, please stop by the booth or go to www.progress.com/kinvey for more information.
